

MLB All Star Protects Future Value

An MLB All Star was headed into the final year of his contract before becoming a free agent.

Working with the player's agent, JSA designed a range of packages to protect his future value in the event that he was disabled prior to signing his free agent contract. Knowing that his financial future was protected, he went on to have another stellar season that resulted in him signing one of the most lucrative contracts in MLB history.